FALCONER FOUNDATION ANNOUNCES THE 2007 BREWING EDUCATION SCHOLARSHIPS & SASQUATCH EVENTS

The Glen Hay Falconer Foundation pleased to announce that it will offer two brewing education scholarships again in 2007 in co-sponsorship with the Siebel Institute. This year, one scholarship will be for the Concise Course in Brewing Technology. The second scholarship is open for candidates to apply for one of the two-week modules from the International Diploma in Brewing Technology Program. The scholarships are open to professional and home brewers in Oregon, Washington, Northern California, Hawaii, and Alaska. More information regarding the scholarships and the application process is posted both on the www.sasquatchbrewfest.org and www.siebelinstitute.com websites.

The fifth annual Sasquatch Brew Fest will take place Saturday, June 2, 2007 in downtown Eugene, Oregon. Join the fun and enjoy over 50 beers, live music, great food, and a lively silent auction and raffle. The Foundation is continuing the homebrewing competition with judging to coincide with the Sasquatch Brew Fest. Details regarding the competition will be posted soon at the www.sasquatchbrewfest.org website.

The Foundation will organize the third annual Sasquatch BrewAm on July 27, 2007 concurrent with the Oregon Brewers Festival in Portland, Oregon. The BrewAm appeals to all levels of golfers and beer lovers. Don't miss the opportunity to play a fun-filled round of golf with brewing luminaries. Full information and registration details are posted on the www.sasquatchbrewfest.org website.
